THE IMPORTANT POINT

love the Lord thy God" and "thy neighbor as thyself."

There are many Christian virtues but the greatest of them all, as Paul reminds us, is love, and without that we are nothing.

The story is told of a young convert girl in the Sandwich Islands, teaching her Sunday School class and anxious to discover what progress in the faith her pupils were making. She asked each one in turn whether she honestly loved her enemies, and if the answer was in the affirmative she set that pupil on her right and said, "Then you are Christian;" and if the answer was negative she placed that one on her left, saying, "Then you are not yet Christian." Thus did this ignorant barbarian separate the sheep from the goats. We would say it was a presumptuous thing to do, but in principle she was right, and but in principle she was right, and she applied the one valid test of our religion.

Gibbon gives five causes for the wonderful expansion of Christianity in those first years: the zeal of the primitive Christians; the doctrine of immortality; the miraculous powers of the apostolic church; their pure morality; and the union and discipline of the Christian republic. But Tertullian has given us what I think is far more likely to have been the most important cause of all, when he records that the "heathen would exmost important cause of all, when he records that the "heathen would exclaim, 'See how these Christians love one another!' It was the blessed secret of love. And it was only later when wrangling over doctrine, when persecution and excommunication of one another supplanted love, until "their fury exceeded that of savage their fury exceeded that of savage easts against mankind," that Chris-beasts against mankind," that Christianity lost its power.

What then is this thing upon which Christ put the whole weight of his emphasis; and which is the elemental basis for that way of living which goes by his name? It is an interpretation of life as supremely personal, for there is no love without persons. And it means putting the highest appraisal upon the personalities about us, not because of what they are to date, but for what they may become. It sees all men as those who have the right to become sons of God, as right to become sons of God, Christ himself saw them.

The large committee under the direction of President O'Connell has spared no efforts to make the affair a great success, and will offer some very beautiful prizes to the winners. Music will enliven the evening, and well known speakers from out of town will also help to make an enjoyable evening.

The progress made by the club during the past year under Pres. O'Connell's leadership has been very gratifying to the members.

NEWTON PALS WIN'34 TO 0

On Sunday afternoon, September 28th, at Boyd Park, the Newton Pals officially ushered in their 1924 foot-ball season by swamping the Roslin-dale Tigers of Roslindale by the over-dale Tigers of Roslindale by the over-whelming score of 34 to 0.

The Pals not only showed fine offen-sive as well as defensive play but also displayed an aerial attack that was dazzling, six out of seven for-ward passes being completed. Fum-bles by the Tiger backfield in the shadow of their own goalposts proved costly, as three of these fumbles were recovered by the Pals and resulted in easy touchdowns.

Francis McCourt, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe with train and tulle veil caught with a spray of orange blossoms. She carried a shower boquet of bride roses and valley lilles.

The maid of honor was gowned in cocoa brown crepe with picture hat of the same color and carried pink rose buds. After a wedding journey to New Hampshire, Vermont and Canada, Mr. and Mrs. McCourt will make their home in Newton Centre.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by Leverett D. G. Bentley

This is the column's anniversary This is the column's anniversary week. Today's "One Thing and Another" is in reality a birthday party. We invited contributions from Graphic readers on the question of whether, after a year's existence, this column "has gone too far already." We offer the responses as they tumbled in upon

To the Author of this column:—
You've offered space for comment,
At the close of your first year,
Our words of commendation
We beg you will print here:
Of "One Thing and Another"
All readers Join in praise,
Through L. D. G. B.'s ready pen
We've had such light on fellowmen,
One chorus sounds—"Do it again!
Your wit and wisdom pays."
So year by year we'll raise a cheer
On anniversary days.
An Appreciative reader. To the Author of this column:-

An Appreciative reader.

"Dear Mr. Bentley:—

"My father was reading your column in the Graphic last night, and he said that you were wondering if it had gone far enough already. He said 'I have a good mind to write him and tell him that I hope he doesn't stop his column,' but my father often says things like that and doesn't do them, so I decided to write and tell you what I think of your column.

"The first time I read your column was one day when my father showed me a piece where you didn't like the way some of us kids were riding bicycles on the sidewalks, so ever since then all of us kids down around Park St. and Eldredge St. and Tremont St., where you live, have been riding on the sidewalks near your house to see if you would write about us in your piece, and you have written about me three times, now. Do you remember the time I nearly ran over you? And that is why I like your column, because it has something about us kids in it.

"P. S. I just showed this letter to in it.

"P. S. I just showed this letter to "P. S. I just showed this letter to my father and he laughed at what I said about him and said, 'Tell him not to sign your name to that letter if he prints it. And you can tell him that I like his column for the same reason, because it contains something about the home town folks that isn't too serious and isn't too light. Tell him I hope he sticks it out another year, at least."

Yours truly, S. T. S. Jr."

"Flossie" writes us-at least the let "Flossie" writes us—at least the let-comes from one who signs herself thus—that she is "appreciative" of our efforts and that she considers writing for a newspaper a work of "artistic endeavor." To emphasize her point she sends the following bit of verse, the authorship of which she does not claim or make known:

The Hen remarked to the Mooly Cow, As she cackled her daily lay, "It's funny how I'm good for an egg a day,

I'm a fool to do it, for what do I get,
My food and my lodging? My.
The Poodle gets that—he's the household pet
And he's never laid a single egg yet,
Not even when eggs were high."

The Mooly Cow remarked to the Hen,
As she masticated her cud,
"Well, what then, you quit and your name is mud.
I'm good for eight gallons of milk a day,

day, I'm given my stable and grub, But the Parrot gets that much anyway, All she can gobble and what does she pay? Not a dribble of milk, the dub!"

The Hired Man remarked to the pair,

You get all that's a comin' to you, 'The Poodle does tricks and the Parrot can swear,

Which is more than you two can do.
You're necessary, but what's the use of bewailin' your daily part—
You're common, workin's your only

What them two do is ART!"

These questions have been submitted by "Q. U. Erie" who says they are the result of a "year's close perusal" of the column:

1. Why do you spend so much time dodging automobiles in Nonantum Square?

Square?

2. You write so much about the Elevated I would like to ask, are you a column conductor or a trolley car conductor?

3. Why these frequent references to our schools—were you the "teacher's pet" or the "bad boy" that the subject of learning has such an appeal?

4. Why don't you write some love stories for your column, or have you no heart?

anniversary of that column would be observed, and you ask: "Has it gone too far—have we had enough of it?"

The idea of discontinuing this column is unthinkable. Just ponder for a moment and imagine, if you can, who would take care of the stray, undernourished animals that roam the streets of Newton? How would we take care of the traffic problem in the square? Who other than the talented editor of This and That Column could bring us back to our happy childhood days when Little Leverett used to clean the trees in the various orchards of Newton, and bravely admitted that he was one of the Gang?

Many perplexing problems have been solved since your column was started one short year ago. Many more have got to be solved, and so it is apparent that you must carry on, and keep the column going. With this end in view we are willing, aye glad to do anything to aid, even to giving our shirt, or the sleeves out of giving our shirt, or the sieeves our vest.

Our suggestion is that instead of dropping the column, that we take steps to have Oct. 5, the anniversary of this column, made a National holi-day by a grateful nation—a worthy tribute to a noble cause.

Most affectionately yours,

ETAOIN SHRDLU.

Editor, One Thing and Another:—
The proof of the pudding is in the eating. Newton Oliver Twists, crying for more, are proof that their appetite for Bentley's column is still unsated. So long as the intellectual gastronomic organs of Newton readers quickly digest and assimilate the pabulum and condiment which he temptingly spreads upon The Graphic's convivial and neighborly board, so long as the news-gourmonds of Chestnut Hill, Newton Corner, Waban and the villages between feast upon the Bentley menu, just so long there is no doubt attaching to the continuance of his column.

is no doubt attaching to the continuance of his column.

Again, the philosophy of life demands a philosopher for its interpretation. Like Benjamin Franklin, with his profound truths plainly expressed for the common man and woman, like Tupper with his proverbial philosophy, so the Bentley column has come with its weekly visit to enlarge the understanding, to quicken aspiration for civic righteousness and physical impeccability in street, lawn

DUPLEX—a new name

-for a new type car you have never seen before!

A closed and open car combined—the advantages of both at an open car price!

STANDARD SIX DUPLEX-PHAETON

No other car in its pricerange has this combination of features:

New Duplex Body. Real Balloon Tires.

Inclined valve engine. Crankshaft and connecting rods machined on all surfaces for vibrationless balance.

Genuine chrome tanned Spanish leather.

All the usual equipment-plus a high grade clock, a dash gas gauge, automatic windshield wiper and lighting switch on steering wheel.

New Studebaker 4-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes-optional equipment. Automatic braking power.

NE minute the DUPLEX is a comfortable, weather-tight closed car—deeply cushioned and richly appointed. In less than thirty seconds it becomes a delightful open car, with all the unhindered freedom every motorist likes and enjoys. Its double utility satisfied a most urgent need—it is as revolutionary as the self-starter and electric lights.

And the price is the same as that of the open car — with advantages in finish, fittings, room and comfort no open car could ever give!

Framed and shaped in steel, the upper of the Duplex Body is built integrally with the lower part—it functions perfectly with the lower part—it is permanently beautiful.

But even without the "double-value" of the Duplex Body the new Standard Six would still be the same great Studebaker success. For its introduction marks the beginning of an era in the automobile industry when fine cars of real quality, plenty of room and comfort, impressive appearance, splendid power and performance may be had at a price the average buyer can Surpassing mechanical superiority is obvious in every mile you drive it. Power, smoothness, silence you expect in any good six-cylinder car; but in this great car your expectations will be exceeded. You cannot anticipate such performance-perfection in any car even within hundreds of dollars of the new Studebaker Standard Six price.

The proof is easy to establish - drive it vourself, try it out on your favorite hill, test its speed on the straight-away. Sense what "ease of operation" really means in terms of effortless steering, velvety clutch action, easy gear shifting and instant brake application.

Experience what real comfort means in plenty of room, soft deep cushions; genuine balloon tires; long, supple springs.

The new Standard Six will tell you a story as it has never been told before by any other car at the Standard Six price.

Whether you are in the market now or next year—you should see this new Stude-baker. It is a car that will revolutionize values in the automobile industry!

Greetings from the Club Editor to ull the clubs and club women of New-on. Renewed in body and in spirit may this twentieth year of association ton. Renewed in body and in spit may this twentieth year of association prove even better than its predecessors. Looking back over the years, one is impressed with the growth of the club work, yet also reminded of the splendid vision of the women who founded some of the early clubs. How they saw with even greater clearness than we do today,—for there were not such a multiplicity of things to blur the vision and distract the mind then,—the needs of their own time, and how they worked to supply them,—these it is well to recall, lest we of today somehow get the idea that our ideas are worth more than theirs. It is true that in the perspective of years we are enabled to Judge more clearly the wisdom of pollicies tried in the past, and to see why some failed and others succeeded. Yet the courage of those first club women today. It is easy to do things that its "the thing" to do, but to put one self into the limelight when it was not "the thing" required women today. OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington Oct. 1.—Inquiries received from various sections of the country indicate that the people want to know if Washington is experiencing the same emotions as other communities which, form the backbone of the nation. Washington has been aptly called "the whispering gallery of the nation," for here the Federal Government is located and thereby centralizing, to some extent, the political, social and economic life of all citizens. The war gave Washington a cosmopolitan atmosphere, and it has been the world capital since that time because of the dominating position of the United States in international affairs. With this exception the capital city differs not a whit from Main street or the average American town.

Like any other community, Washington revels in gossip, mostly of a political or social nature. Being so gruntled with the turn of the cards city differs not a whit from Main street or the average American town.

Like any other community, Washington revels in gossip, mostly of a political or social nature. Being so close to the hub of things, those living within the city do not attach the importance to activities of officials as those some distance away. It is merely a difference of perspective. This is te reason that a Congressman or government office holder looks bigger to the folks in his home district. Recently, a newcomer in Congress from the Southwest became incensed at the failure of people here to recognize his importance and suggested to his colleagues that a bill should be introduced moving the Capitol west of the Mississippi. His proposal only made duced moving the Capital Mississippi. His proposal only made this uninitiated representative the laughing stock of the House for two years. More experienced legislators know just where they stand in official life and govern themselves accordingly. Dr. Powers.

The High School Girl Reserves will hike to Echo Bridge on Grant Processing Control of the Control omicial life and govern themselves ac-cordingly.

With the elections drawing close the most popular form of mental ac-tivity is the formation of prospective Cabinets for the next President. Of Cabinets for the next President. Of course, it is somewhat premature but people, as a rule, speculate on everything. With the resumption of the social season on a small scale, "Cabinet-Making" is the chief topic in the drawing-room and at the club houses. Whether one agrees with the predictions made during a conversation with high officials and their families, the fact that a notable is the authority for a statement, no matter The children's gymnasium class and club will meet on Wednesday afternoon. There will be folk dancing, story telling and handicraft.

Plans are now in progress for a big membership rally meeting to be held on Monday evening, October 20th, when important Y. W. C. A. business will be discussed, and a fine program of songs and instrumental music will be furnished. remilies, the fact that a notable is the authority for a statement, no matter how vague, always adds a dash of color. In Washington, and elsewhere, most people like to believe that they have the "low-down" on doings of the great men and women whose names appear prominently in the daily newspapers. The fact that information, relatively worthless, is given in strictest confidence heightens the value to the confidant. It has a tendency to strengthen conviction because discussion might bring doubts.

As the imagination is usually enlivened by conversation, much of the dope on future Cabinets must be taken with a grain of salt. Those who anticipate the election of Mr. Coolidge expect several new faces in his advisory council. The tea-table and golf course gassin is to the effect where

The tea-table and golf course gossip is to the effect that there will be at least four vacancies course gossip is to the effect that there will be at least four vacancies. These diviners say that Postmaster-General New has outlived his usefulness and may be succeeded by Bascom Slemp, now secretary to the President, or one the of the leading Republicans of the House. Others say that the Coolidge campaign manager, W. M. Butler, will find a berth as the PMG or Secretary of Commerce succeeding Hoover who is looking for other fields to conquer after re-organizing his department successfully. Over the tea-cups they say that Secretary of Labor Davis will retire and make way for another award. Trouble has followed the Secretary of the Navy and some expect Mr. Wilbur to return to his law practice in California.

Disraeli, a wise statesman once said Disraeli, a wise statesman once said that there is no gambling like politics and nothing in which the power of circumstances is more evident. No doubt there are thousands of men who feel qualified and deserving of Cabinet posts and seek the job. There are others who decline invitations to this high honor as they know that "in politics ment is rewarded." that "in politics, merit is rewarded by the possessor being raised, like a target to a position to be fired at." Serving on a board of directors in the business field, a capable man has a chance to defend himself but as a member of the Cabinet he is constantly under pressure from political number of the Cabinet he is constantly under pressure from political sources. The glory is only passing as illustrated in everyday life here when it is said that Frank L. Polk would be his choice for Secretary of State. Robert Lansing, who formerly held the post under the late President Wil-, is slated for a diplomatic as-signment, possibly to the Court of St.

LODGES On Saturday, Sept. 27th, the Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Mass., exemplified the three degrees in Scenic Temple, Berkeley street, Boston. Patriarchal at 2, Golden Rule at 4.30, Royal Purple at 7.15 P. M. Manet Encampment of Quincy, Lawrence Encampment of Lawrence and Paul Revers of Rayhuyr conferred the degrees. vere of Roxbury conferred the degrees Garden City Encampment, Newton ville, sent five candidates to receive the three degrees ly under pressure from political sources. The glory is only passing as illustrated in everyday life here when former Cabinet officers are never noticed in a crowd.

If John W. Davis wins the election, it is said that Frank L. Polk would be his choice for Secretary of State. Robert Lansing. who formerly held the post under the late President Willing is slated for a diplomatic assignment, possibly to the Court of St.

Sept. 24th. ST. JAMES THEATRE-At the St. James Theatre next week the Boston Stock Company, will spring a surprise upon its patrons in the form of Rich-Stock Company, will spring a surprise upon its patrons in the form of Richard Purdy's novelty-play "Across the Street." It is the play which won five thousand dollars as the best and cleanest American play entered in the Chautauqua contest. It is produced by the Boston Stock Company for the first time in Boston. Two young men, the story tells, are miscast in life. One runs a newspaper; the other a dry-goods store. Secretly they make a pact to perform each other's jobs. The inspiration proves to have been a brilliant one, and the business of the town is boomed. The play has great good humor, and the colored thread of romance running through it. But its novelty is in the whirlwind third-act surprise. Herbert Heyes and Houston Richards will be seen as the delightful pals, and some fine character-sketches will be projected by the others of that able group of players, the Boston Stock Company.

in the tents before supper. After supper a big fire in the camp house kept everybody warm, and after an evening of stunts and singing the girls rolled up in their blankets, hoping to be able to keep warm till morning. Every one was up early with as many different reports of the night as there were girls there. Some slept warm—some slept cold, some slept all night, others didn't sleep so well, but every one was just as enthusiastic as they were the night before, and after the sun had been up a few hours a swim in the pond was immensely enjoyed by a part of the group. One more week end, only, this fall, Oct. 3 and 4, when the Junior Troop of Newton Centre will be in camp, and then the overnight hikes will be over for this season. Daytime hikes will be enjoyed all the fall, however, and the girls are already planning skating parties and snow shoe hikes at camp during the cold weather. in the tents before supper. After sup-code, adjust or eliminate those sections which do not conform to the subsequent zoning ordinance, and to find ways in which building costs may be reduced without diminishing the effectiveness of the present code.

Following an extended and careful study of the present code at frequent meetings last season, the work of rewriting the ordinances was undertaken during the summer months by subcommittees, with Buildings Commissioner Chadwick, Albert S. Kendall, John P. Hurley, and George Kellar and Malcolm Warren of the Buildings Commissioner's office rewriting that part of the code applying to construction, while Chairman G. Wilbur Thompson, with Alfred G. Kerr, the master plumber's representative on the Chamber committee, are engaged in rewriting the latter section of the code which applies to plumbing.

In accordance with the general custom of giving separate consideration to these two general sections of the code, the first of which is generally referred to as the "building ordinances" and the latter as "plumbing redinances" and the latter as to simplify the revision program—the Chamber is treating these as separate problems and the report submitted on Tuesday dealt only with the first part of the code, or the "building ordinances,"—as well as to simplify the revision program—the Chamber is treating these as separate of the code, or the "building ordinances," of the code, or the "

The show would naturally be held on the Holiday, October 13th, but the constant desire of this club to do nothing at any time to hurt the success of any other show within reasonable distance influenced it to forego the advantages of the holiday in order to allow another club with which it has very friendly relations to stage their annual event on that day without competition.

While the entry is not very large, some three hundred and seventy-five dogs are catalogued. This is considered good in view of the fact of another show being held the day before to the South of Boston. Two shows in a state within fifty miles radius of to the South of Boston. Two shows in a state within fifty miles radius of each other and within two days is a serious mistake and harmful to both a serious mistake and harmful to both. Some of the breeds have produced splendid entries, being led by about sixty Boston Terriers, then come the popular Shepherds with close to that number, the ever steady Cockers being third with twenty-two, and Colles on their heels with twenty-one. Irish Setters and Chows compete for the next place with fifteen of each, Bull Terriers, Sealyhams and Scottles are bunched with over a dozen in each breed, and the Doberman Pinschers with a brand new judge have pro-each breed, and the Doberman Pinschers with a brand new judge have produced a good entry of thirteen, while Irish Terriers are well represented with twelve good specimens.

At this show will be seen the first real entry of Bob Tails, otherwise the Old English Sheepdogs, a most attractive breed, which of late years has scarcely bee nseen at any show on account of lack of competition. Here four good specimens will be seen and as they all come from Newton or its close vicinity, additional interest should be shown in their peculiar beauties.

So at least spend Saturday after-noon with the Dogs and learn of their friendliness what culture will do, even in the Dog World.

Above all other things be supported.

Above all other things be sure to stay for the judging of the variety classes and the awarding of the Club's Cup for the best of all breeds, which Cup for the best of all breeds, which will mark the conclusion of the show. These features have become about the most interesting for the layman, as the judges have the best of all the breeds to pass upon, and the placing of these awards are always watched and received with great interest, and are most valuable as producing an apportunity to the spectator to compare all varieties at one time and select his or her most favored inhis or her most favored in-

Post Road Farm

Your Milk Supply Is Important

You should demand that your milk is received from a herd of cows that are clean and healthy:

That the stable in which these cows are kept is clean and

That the milking is done in a sanitary, careful way;

That the milk is carefully bottled and delivered; That the tuberculin test be applied to the herd of cattle supplying you with milk, and that you receive milk from a tubercular free herd.

Unless you are getting milk handled under these conditions, you are not getting the best.

It is important to study the source of your milk supply, which will easily, determine its quality.

We invite you to inspect our dairy If you order from the Post Road Farm, you will get rich, clean milk of fine flavor.

Editor Newton Graphic:
Many residents of Newtonville remember when the site now selected for the location of the new School for the location of the new School Building in front of the Technical School was a large area of dirty water and nothing but a bog hole with cattle belong to the Pulsifer Farm, seen standing in this mud on hot days.

Afterwards several feet of filling was dumped on this site to cover up this unsightly as well as unhealthy spot, and also provided for the old brook to continue its flow on to the Charles River.

brook to continue its flow on to the Charles River.

It does not seem possible that the School Committee or other officials of the City of Newton could suggest or even consider this location, as various test holes or borings recently made show a depth in places of some 20 feet before hard pan was reached, on which to build suitable foundations for the proposed building.

No officials of the City of Newton, including the School Committee, would ever consider building a residence for themselves over such a boolole, and yet this location is advocated, knowing full well, it would always be a menace and jeopardize the health of pupils.

NEW BUILDING

A significant step in the growth of New England's commercial and in-dustrial supremacy is exemplified in the opening of the new $6,000,000 home of the Boston Chamber of Com-merce at 80 Federal Street on Octo-ber 6

Boston now has the distinction of Boston now has the distinction of not alone having the largest Chamber of Commerce in the United States with more than 8,000 members, but also has the largest and best-equipped organization building in the country.

Admirably situated in the heart of Boston's business section, the handsome new building contains many new features including the largest diningroom facilities in Boston situated on the top floor, overlooking Boston harbor.

The entire fourteenth floor of the ouilding is given over to business and club facilities for the members of the

The basement contains the largest cafeteria in Boston, shower baths, dressing rooms, barber shop, and similar conveniences for the convenience and service of the members.

For the past three years the Boston Chamber has been busily engaged in erecting this monument to business under the direction of the various presidents and other prominent men in the community. It is anticipated manufacturing centre as well as a residential section.

No effort or expense has been spared in making the Chamber's building the headquarters of New England business, a striking demonstration of the progress of New England as a business centre, not alone for the members throughout New England, but for visitors as well.

In erecting this monument to New England's industrial and commercial leadership, the officers of the Cham-

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by Leverett D. G. Bentley

Occasionally we see a Boston Elevated car covered with the new shade of orange paint as adopted by the road's management as the most desirable, etc. We do not know how the color will appeal to others. For our own part we have not yet made a decision. When we see a string of them—and somehow or other the Newton-Brighton-Watertown cars move in strings along Tremont street—we will be better prepared to offer am opinion. A great streak of orange on the ion. A great streak of orange on the landscape seems a bit out of place unless it forms a part of the sunset or after-glow. At a distance the color is wonderful, indeed, almost inspiring. In a "close-up" the effect on the eye is different. We are not going to judge in advance the road's policy because we do not wish to be unfair. There are excellent reasons, we are told, for the use of this vivid color and it is only just that we permit the road to work out its ideas before we begin to make comments. Perhaps some of our friends with a knowledge of painting (we mean that which is frequently referred to as "art") will be able to advise us. Certain it is the streets will be gayer in appearance. Whether it ion. A great streak of orange on the vise us. Certain it is the streets will be gayer in appearance. Whether it will be as soothing as the green we have viewed so many years seems to us a grave question. Up to the present we are really partial to the green. If the orange hue will do anything towards increasing the speed or even securing a greater regularity of the schedule of operation we shall not hesitate to express our heartiest commendation. It is said that it will be better for night traffic; that an automobile driver will be able to view the approach of a trolley car with less eye strain. It seems to us that if the the approach of a trolley car with less eye strain. It seems to us that if the eye-strain at night is to be relieved, the eye-strain in the daylight is going to be a trifle more severe. But there we go again—prejudging that which is not ready for our thoughtful study. Of course there is the subject of a lower rate of fare and if the new color will cause a reduction it will be worthy of consideration. That, to us seems almost too much to expect in these days when the living-cost index figures seem so fixed. In our way of looking at it we shall expect little change and the rush-hours of morning and night will still represent that for which so many passengers have stood for years. for which so many passengers have stood for years. In short it will con-tinue to mean "Orange crush— ten cents."

Miss Charlotte Guild Bullard, for many years a prominent church woman both in Newton and Boston died on Sunday at the home of her niece, Mrs. George M. Randall of Pleasant street, Newton Centre.

Miss Bullard was born in Boston in 1842 and was a daughter of the late Francis Bullard and Harrieto Dagget Bullard. At the time of her death she was in her $2d$ year.

As a young woman Miss Bullard was deeply interested in the activities of the Church of the Messiah when it was located in Florence St. South End, during the rectorate of Rev. few seconds later. There were, however, men who marched down the aisle and did not remove their hats until they had obtained their seat check from the usher. We came to the conclusion that most of the matured men "knew their manners" and although somewhat slow in observing all the rules of etiquette were nevertheless possessed of good intentions and needed only a little time in which to work out their own code. We found that, quite as the manager had said, the worst offenders were youths. They seemed to feel that they were permitted to do quite as they please without regard to the feelings of other people. We could not help but say, "If their home manners are no better we are sorry for their parents." Sometimes it is only the "rough stuff" that cures these fresh youths. We have no desire to incite others to crime, but we think it would be a great idea if the ushers were instructed to snatch the hats off the heads of these youths, together with a quantity of hair, if necessary. And under the circumstances we doubt if such a method of teaching etiquette would be looked upon as a criminal act.

We shall be disappointed if all the

We shall be disappointed if all the citizens of Newton do not obtain from the All-Newton Community Welfare Conference something of value, directly or indirectly. If they do not it will be their fault, for more complete plans could scarcely be laid than those prepared under the supervision of the Newton Central Council. Seldom have we had the pleasure of encountering a more efficient executive secretary than Mr. Arthur Dunham. He possesses a splendid grasp of the activities of the welfare organizations of Newton, a knowledge of the surest methods of arousing public interest, and an enormous capacity for hard work. The division chairman and others, we are confident, find it a source of satisfaction to deal with an official so thoroughly and constantly "on the job" as Mr. Dunham. However, since personalities are to be entirely submerged in this great enterprise we shall dwell only upon the opportunities that our fellow citizens are to have in observing the admirable undertaking in all its branches. Newton people are invited to make "Comeand-See" tours, and in this way learn of the social progress of their home city. Ignoring this chance to learn will mean, as we view it, forfeiture of the right to criticise. No more will city. Ignoring this chance to learn will mean, as we view it, forfeiture of the right to criticise. No more will it be allowable to sit back and make it be allowable to sit back and make unfavorable comments regarding matters of which one has declined to study first hand. Many worthy people are zealously employed, without profit to themselves, and in most every case at a personal sacrifice, in making Newton a more desirable and attractive place to live. That they should be encouraged goes without saying. Indifference to their efforts will, in our opinion, be inexcusable. "Come-and-See" is their motto. Our advice is "Go-and-See."

A laudible effort is in progress in A laudible effort is in progress in this city to increase the registration of voters. To us there seems no better way to arouse the people to the importance of personal interest in politics. "Sitting pretty," as so many people do on Election Day, is what gives power to those who boast of their ability to control votes. There may be many things to say about representative government, or its short-comings, but who has anything better to offer? What, after all, is nearer self-government than the right to go to the polls and there, unmolested, mark one's ballot? If the people who find fault would stop and consider that the right of suffrage is consider that the right of suffrage is about as glorious a privilege as may be obtained, there would not be the need of driving men and women to register their names. So many things in these days are taken for granted that it is difficult to make the unthinking pause and reflect. We are willing that many things should be taken for granted, as to continually maintain a flow of enthusiastic appreciation is a tax on one's energies. But do not take your political candidates for granted. Pick 'em out as you would something of value that you need. Remember that after you have made a selection of a candidate that the law says in effect, "No exchange allowed after leaving the voting booth." onsider that the right of suffrage is

Washington, Oct. 8-Judging from Washington, Oct. 8—Judging from the number of complaints received here of late, the public has become satiated with attempts of Government bureaus and legislators to distribute ready-made opinions. Impartial inquiry, giving a few sidelights, shows that this practice is expensive and practically worthless. The products of the government printing press and mimeograph intended primarily for the edification of the nation's citizens, especially those of voting age, it is said, do nothing more than clutter up waste baskets and add ma-

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

There will be a Rummage Sale under the auspices of the Woman's Association of Central Church in the old church next to the city hall, West Newton, on Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17, as follows: Friday: 1.30-6, 7.30-9; Saturday, 1.30-6, 7 it is said, do nothing more than clutter up waste baskets and add materially to the cost of operating the government. It is the growing mania on the part of office-holders of all parties for personal publicity which is responsible for distribution of nonessential information.

Some idea of the enormous waste may be gleaned from official reports of the Public Printer, which show that approximately 46,000,000 publications were sent out on free mailing lists as ordered by Federal departments last year. The average citizen has little or no use for the documents which pour into his mail box from congressmen and government. from congressmen and government departments. It is a prerogrative which a congressman refuses to sur-render, but like seeds, may be finally render, but like seeds, may be finally discarded. A conservative estimate by the Public Printer gives the cost of the present free distribution of government publications at 1,000,000 per year, "most all of which are wasted." No doubt the vanity, which often overpowers dignity, of congressmen to see their names in print must be gratified, but the expense of this glorification is appalling. A report made by the Joint Committee on Printing showed that the House folding room had to dispose of an accu-

Printing showed that the House folding room had to dispose of an accumulation of more than 1,000,000 obsolete and useless publications which members had failed to send to their constituents. The Senate folding room likewise had to get rid of nearly 900,000 documents, more than 50 tons of which were sold as waste paper. Thus in eight years more than 2,000,000 publications that had never been taken out of their wrappers in the Congressional folding rooms, nor opened by a single reader since the day they came from the Government presses were disposed of as waste presses were disposed of as waste paper to make room for the incoming millions of documents doomed to a similar fate, says the Public Printer.

millions of documents doomed to a similar fate, says the Public Printer, candidly.

Criticism has been made that some congressmen abuse their printing privileges without rhyme or reason. It is officially reported that $200,000 was appropriated by the last Congress for reprinting two time-honored publications telling how to treat diseases of horses and cattle and ordered for free public distribution, "despite the fact that there are now in storage at the Capitol 52,000 copies of the various editions of the horse and cattle books, some of which were printed more than 25 years ago." The Superintendent of Documents had on hand at the Government Printing, store rooms at the close of the fiscal year 1923, more than 30,000,000 copies of Government publications. store rooms at the close of the fiscal year 1923, more than 30,000,000 copies of Government publications. For obvious reasons congressmen and Government departments do not call attention of the public to the facts reported by the Public Printer. This frank and daring official says "notwithstanding the enormous free distribution of departmental publications the Superintendent of Documents has had to sell as waste paper 14,062,247 copies of obsolete and useless publications in the last 10 years because they were not distributed by the departments while timely or did not arouse sufficient interest to request copies even when obtainable for nothing. There will be added to these 14,000,000 wasted copies undoubtedly half of the present 30,000,000 publications which are becoming obsolete and of no value either for free distribution or sale to an unappreciative public. It seems fair to assume that the total waste in publications printed for free distribution by the departments in the last 10 years will be fully 25,000,000 copies." It would appear that economy is something to talk about and allow others to practice.

Another factor which is purposely

With the opening of the gymnasium classes last week the physical program at the Newton Y. M. C. A. was opened for the fall and winter season with well attended classes. Business men are meeting at 5.15 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday for calesthenic drill, and some volley ball games following the drill. It is hoped that enough men will become interested in the game so that a league may be formed in this group.

The senior gymnasium class had a very encouraging start with more than thirty men in the first class on last Tuesday night, in spite of the rainy weather. The work given on Tuesday and Thursday at eight o'clock consists of a calesthenic drill, apparatus work of various types, with the class sub-divided in groups, and then mass games. With the cooler weather coming, and the basket ball season approaching, plans will be made to run a league in the senior class, and possibly form a representative team for competition with other organizations.

F. A. Day Junior High School

Tuesday afternoon in the school Assembly Hall we were entertained by Mr. N. K. Dhalwani of Bombay, his wife and little daughter. Mr. Dhalwani talked informally to a group of fascinated listeners. He illustrated with beautiful materials from India how his country and its people differ from ours in customs, language, religion, and economic life. After the talk, several people availed themselves of the opportunity to ask Mr. Dhalwani questions and to meet Mrs. Dhalwani and the little girl. The students of our Social Studies classes were particularly pleased to hear first hand about a country which they are studying.

The eighth grade divisions have been naking small kitchen furnishings for cience. One of the interested pupils nade and explained an ice chest, ising a piece of spaghetti for the Touchdowns were made by Lyman, aul and Gadsden. Gadsden carried Paul and Gadsden. Paul and Gadsden. Gadsden carried the ball across for the point after touchdown, and Lyman kicked a field goal from the thirty yard line. Thus the score at the end of the fourth eight minute period was 22-0 in favor of the Junior High.

This afternoon the Junior High plays the Fessenden School at Fessenden where the F. A. Day will attempt to uphold the reputation established in its first game. Fundamentals do not change. When George Washington wrote "We shall preserve our liberties only by the religious education of our youth," he stated a truth that is as vital today as then, perhaps even more so when we Impressed by these considerations, thinking people have been awakening in recent years to the necessity of standardizing our present haphazard methods of educating the youth of our country in religious principles and moral scopets. It is this awakened interest that makes possible the great Conventions which gather from time to time to discuss ways and means of revitalizing Church School methods. It is, in fact, the real reason for the coming together in Watertown for three days of this month.—October 21, 22, and 23—of a group of the best known leaders in Religious Education in this country. Mr. N. K. Dhalwani, a native of

India, assisted by his wife and little daughter, Sagoona, gave an interesting entertainment in the Hall, Sept. 23, on the life, the customs, and the country the life, the customs, and the country of India.

The first report of attendance for the period ending Oct. 2 showed an average of 97.2 for the entire school. The class of Miss Kelly was the highest and stood at 99.3.

On the first weighing there were three classes that had no "Reds." Miss Jonah's, Miss Dill's, and Miss Hunt's. This is the first time that the school has started the year with classes having no "Reds."

son, LLD.
Problems of Young Paople's Work will be studied under the guidance of Rev. E. H. Bonsall, Jr., formerly an Episcopalian rector in Pennsylvania, and now superintendent of the Young People's Division of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School Association, Mr. Bonsall is a leader in camps for young people and is eminently qualified to discuss this subject in a practical and helpful way.

The Convention will make its appeal not only to those now interested in Church School work in this vicinity through membership or official connection, but also to those whose interest in Religious Education is more general. It presents an opportunity for instruction, practical help, and worthwhile entertainment, whichever may be the chief desire of the individual.

AWAKEN!

Need we the belching cannon's roar, The mangling of our Youth in war, Need we the stench of poison gas, Need we the cry "They shall not Pass" To banish lethargy To awaken loyalty.

Need we the anguished moans
Of women left alone.
The sight of faces seared by pain,
Men's spirit broken by the strain,
To rouse us from our apathy,
To send us onward loyally.

Need we the Hell of Revolution The scorning of our Constitution Today a fact in fevered mind, Tomorrow a nation undermined.

Need we from history further quote

The maples are popular, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. C. The maples have oppoleaves, with deeply recessed edges, and always bear keys, or seeds, with a long winglike appendage, in pairs. These are as characteristic as acorns are of the oaks. The leaves are borne in pairs, one opposite the other, along the stems.

F. A. Day Defeats Fessenden 53-0
On October 10 the Day Junior High defeated the Fessenden School at Fessenden Field, West Newton. Gadsden, quarter back for F. A. Day, tore through and around the Fessenden through and around the Fessenden line almost at will for long gains going fifty yards and more for touchdowns. The excellent interference afforded by other members of the Day eleven and the ability of Gadsden to make his own interference plus his great running ability made possible the unanimous defeat handed Fessenden. Paul, the Day right half back, counted heavily through his rushing and interefernce, while Captain Healy was the outstanding player for Feswas the outstanding player for Fes

THE NEWTON ARCHERS

The annual fall tournament of The Mewton Archers was a most successful event. Guests were invited to shoot and competition was very keen. Saturday aftennoon arrows were shot at 60, 50, and 40-yard distances. Archers were formed into teams of four each,—two ladies and two gentlemen. Each of the winning team members received a prize. Mr. Leighton Cram of Newtonville was one of these.

Monday an all-day shoot was enjoyed, (with a basket lunch at noon). The distances used were 80 yards, 72 arrows; 60 yards, 48 arrows; 50 yards, 24 arrows; ladies and gentlemen competing together. The ladies did some very good shooting,—in comparison with the men,—in spite of their handicaps of the long 80-yard distance, and of their light bows.

Miss Dorothy Smith of Newton Centre won the ladies' first prize; and Miss Dora Cummings of Newton Centre, the ladies' lowest score prize. Mr. John Preston True won the concealed number prize.

The novelty shoot that completed the afternoon was the ever popular balloon shoot. The many colored balloons floating from a string over the green, and the archers in their picturesque sport, made a very pretty sight for a large number of spectators.

KIMBALL WINN Country Day School's Student Council was named at the annual election as follows: Robert Gowing, '25, Brookline; Reid Harwood, '25, Brookline; Philip Nichols, Jr., '25; Evartes Greene, '26, Newton Centre, and Reginald Johnson, '26, Cambridge, These, with Joseph Hubbard, '25, Boston, and Edmund Sears, '25, Boston, who were on the Council last year, will represent the student body for the year.

Thompson Stone has called out candidates for the Glee Club.

Monday evening Sergeant Seaver with Officers Dolan, Feeley, and Riley searched the premises of Joseph Arduino, at 391 Langley road, Thompsonville and seized a quantity of brandy, gin, wine and bitters. In the Superior Court at Cambridge this week, John Perry, who was arrested with his wife, Nellie Perry, last week for larceny was sentenced to the Concord Reformatory while the case against his wife was continued.

The Hittites

That the Hittites were in constant communication with other nations is shown by the fact that Egyptian scarabs and maulets, Phoenician pottery and Greek terra cotta figures are found in the tombs of different periods. Bronze daggers and jewelry are fairly common and a safety pin, 3,000 years old, that would still work, is said to have been found.

Cutlers Realize That Twain Had Right Idea

Many years ago Mark Twain wrote one of his characteristic little sketches about a boy buying a jackknife. His observation was that in the presence of the infinite variety of shiny knives which the hardware man had in his showcase any knife that the boy selected from the rest looked like a clumsy inferior affair, but that as soon as the boy had made his choice and got away from the influence of all of the other knives his particular knife became a precious and radiant thing of beauty.

It was generations ago that the great humorist discussed this topic, but the cutlers have taken the lesson to heart at last and decided that they have been making too many kinds pocketknives. Their interest in the matter is economic; their aim is more profits and they hope to achieve that end by ceasing to turn out many eccentric varieties of knives that are slow sale and not much good anyway. Their meeting was, in fact, a part of Mr. Hoover's comprehensive for saving money by standardizing products and scrapping unnecessary models, but behind all of that one sees the eternal small boy, who is just the same now that he was when Mark Twain observed him relieved of an ancient embarrassment.—Detroit Free

Mine Brought Wealth to Fortunate Mexican

Pachuca, capital of the state of Hi dalgo, Mexico, is one of the world's greatest and most famous mining cen ers, according to a bulletin of the National Geographic society. One of Pachuca's silver mines, the Real de Monte, contained the counterpart of Nevada's famous Comstock lode

An inconspicuous muleteer became he owner of the Pachuca's mine in 1739, when its value was unknown His pick opened up a bonanza vein such as seldom has been uncovered Soon he was a multimillionaire, in day when even millionaires were rare presented several fully equipped warships to the king of Spain and for his happy thought was made a count—Conde de Santa Maria de Regin.

The famous mine came to a tragic end soon after the count's rise to for tune, by the bursting into it of a sub terranean river. Its drowned riches remained untouched until near the middle of the Nineteenth century. when efforts to reopen it by British engineers led to frenzied speculation and a crash among London investors rivaling those of the Mississippi bubble. Local Pachucans bought up the bankrupt company and promptly found second bonanza vein even richer

Writer Would Welcome Return to Simplicity

People who complain about the in creasing burdens of life do not always use plain, common sense to ease them-selves of these burdens. We do not have to have many of the things that we now enjoy and pay for. It might not seem easy or pleasant to sacri-fice some of these encumbrances, but we could do it.

Camel's Great Value

Conditions in central Australia are said to be more primitive than those of the rural world during the time of Abraham. It is a roadless country traversed only by camel caravan and yet a land of great possibilities. It has been the camel which has held central Australia—the camel first, and then the goat (for its domestic volue). and after that the donkey as a fine offsider. The camel performs won-ders in endurance and reliability amid big distances. The importance of the goat is great in the scheme of things. There is no family without a goat Like the camel, it is marvelous what they live on. Amusing incidents often occur connected with the extraordinary appetite of the goat, which

Quite a Bright Idea

A well-known author on leaving his house one morning forgot a letter he had intended to mail. During the ternoon something recalled it to mind, and as it was of considerable importance he hurried home.

The letter was nowhere to be found.

He summoned the servant. "Have you seen anything of a letter of mine lying about?"
"Yes, sir."

"Where is it?"

"Mailed, sir."
"Mailed! Why, there was no name or address on the envelope.

"I know there wasn't, sir, but I thought it must be in answer to one of them anonymous letters you've been getting lately."

Birds of the Night

Nighthawks and whippoorwills work chiefly at night, when most other birds work is taken up by the swifts and swallows. These birds are provided with big scoopnet mouths, and as they swing through the air over wide areas of country they scoop up almost un-believable numbers of insects.

Homing pigeons probably are closer to the human family than any other form of winged life. The birds have re markable intelligence. They mate in pairs and the female of each union has exercised her right of suffrage to the extent that the male helps her in hatching out the eggs and in caring for and feeding the young.

Traced Tropical Scourge The first intimation we had that yel-low fever was not a contagious dis-ease and that the infection was due to some external cause, appeared during the occupation of Cuba.

It was in 1900 that surgeons and soldiers of the United States army at the risk of their lives, proved that vellow fever, the supreme terror of the tropics, was not a contagious or filth disease, but was transmitted from one human being to another solely by mosquito of a particular type, the stegomyia.

Colonists Called On to "Trade" at Home

In a copy of the Providence Gazette issued during the Colonial period appears an amusing item of local news which, if literally adhered to, doubt less would have devastated a portion of New England of its household cats. The copy of the paper bears the date of November 28, 1767, and one readily discerns that the residents of that Rhode Island city regarded themselves at the time as loyal subjects of George III. The article reads: "A number of householders in this town will engage to supply the public with the article of Catskins of American breed, not inferior to British ones, for making Muffs and Tippets. There are at this time a large number of his majesty's American cats, finely colored and spotted, who are bad mousers and now ready to be sacri-ficed for the good purpose of muffs and tippets, and it is hoped that all persons who wish well to America will give the preference to his mafesty's catskins before those of foreign growth. As musts and tippets are thought to be of the first importance, it would be well worth the consideration of all lovers of this coun-try whether we ought not to encourage the use and consumption of our own catskins in preference of all others. The learned assure us that the American catskins are vastly superior to those of Europe, being of finer fur and more beautifully variegated with spots and streaks."

Vast Stores of Gold Await Lucky Finders

What becomes of gold? It has many channels of disappearance, according to experts. Figures show that more than half of the annual output is em-ployed in the fine arts and jewelry trade. Thousands of pounds also are used by dentists, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, one estimate being that over a ton is needed every year for the filling of teeth. Then money is worn in handling, this loss being one and a quarter million dollars annually. Bank of England sovereigns are often tested and found to have lost much of the original weight. Of the immense quantities of the precious metal that have been buried away in the earth, it is believed com-paratively little has ever been recovered. The priests of Peru are said to have buried approximately ten million dollars' worth of treasure to preserve it from the clutches of their perse cutors. None of this has been found. The tombs of the old kings of Egypt were treasure houses, immense quanti ties of gold and jewels being interred with them. It has been estimated by historians that Alexander the Great became the master of great hoards of gold, all of which, so far as is known, has vanished.

Iona, the "Blessed Isle"

Iona, one of the smaller of the In-ner Hebrides, was the "Blessed Isle" of early Christian days in the British islands, says the Detroit News. St Columbia, noted Irish missionary, made it the center of Celtic Christianity.

From there missionaries went out to convert Scotland and northern England to Christianity. Kings were brought to be buried in the soil of the sacred island. The importance of Iona was ended, however, by the Danes who swept down about the beginning of the Ninth century and seized the Hebrides from the Scotch.

All Life a Struggle

Life is a battle all through, physically as well as morally. Everything is struggling to endure, and the more successfully we struggle the stronge we become against a weakening enemy. Animal Intelligence

According to William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, the chimpanzee is the most in-telligent of all animals below man. He can learn more by training and more easily than any other animal. A high-class horse is a very wise and capable animal, but this is chiefly due to its age-long association with man and education by him. A high-class dog is the animal that mentally is in the closest touch with the mind, the feelings, and the impulses of man, and the only one that can read a man's feelings from his eyes and his facial expression.

Lyric Soprano

The word lyric is derived from the lyre, which is now used as an instrument to accompany the smaller forms with songs that are composed more for their melodious interest than for their dramatic effect. A lyric soprano is known as a light soprano, which is more suited to light songs and solos. to distinguish it from dramatic so-pranos, which are heard to greater advantage in opera and oratorio work.

Gems of Architecture in India and Italy

Taj Mahal is the costliest private tomb in the world, and was built by the Indian ruler Shah Jehan as a final resting place for the remains of his favorite wife, Mumtaz-i-Mahal, "the pride of the palace." This mausoleum, which is accounted by some critics to be the most beautiful building ever constructed, is one mile east of Agra, and its erection covered a period of 21 years, starting in 1629 and ending in 1650. It is built entirely of white alabaster, and is believed to have cost over $9,000,000.

Saint Peter's church is the largest and most imposing Christian church in the world, but is not conceded to pass the architectural beauty of Taj Mahal. The approach to it is through an open space, the Plazza di San Pl-etro, which is elliptical in form, covers several acres and is surrounded by colonnades, or covered driveways. In the center of this piazza stands a red granite obelisk 80 feet in height, which was brought from Egypt in the of Caligula, but was not erected here until the Sixteenth century, when the church was in process of construction.

About the walls on the interior of the church there are altars, chapels, tombs, and innumerable works of art; while beneath the center of the dom rises the high altar, at which only the pope or a specially authorized cardinal may officiate; and above this towers the great bronze canopy, 95 feet in height. The total cost of the building is estimated at about $50,000,000, and considerable difficulty was experienced in raising this sum.

Primrose Day Memorial to English Statesman

England's "Primrose day" is a trib-ute to the memory of Lord Beaconsfield. The primrose was his favorite flower. The story is that when he was a young man he made a bet of a pair of gloves with a lady respecting a wreath of yellow blossoms, the in dispute being whether they real or artificial. Disraeli stated that they were real and won the bet. The lady thereupon presented him with one of the primroses and Disraeli, with the impetuous gallantry of youth, vowed that he would treasure the flower and adopt it as his badge. "Primrose day" was founded in 1882. Next year it was determined that an annual festivalshould be inaugurated. Curiously enough, the primrose has for centuries been esteemed an unlucky flower among the English country folk. Shakespeare alludes to the superst tion; and to this day in East Anglia, as well as throughout the western counties, it is esteemed disastrous to take a single primrose into a farm-Serious loss among chickens lambs and calves will, it is averred, in-

The railway bridges, Doctor Hedin says, are built everywhere on the same principle, but the primitive bridges with which Asia abounds are of the most diverse character. The ancient and famous minera springs from which the town of Bath England, réceives its name and fame are rich in historical reminiscence. John Revet visited the hot water. John Revet visited Bath in 1674, and appropriately presented a brass ring, which may still be seen on the walls of the king's bath. Miss Elizabeth Ross, who will be-ome the Superintendent of the Newcome the Superintendent of the Newton District Nursing Association, spoke at the Community Welfare Conference on October 16, of the recent survey of the Association, and its plans for a future program of broader service. A summary of Miss Ross's address follows:

Last spring the Newton District Nursing Association decided to take account of its stock and find out what would be the best way to make their Association the most up-to-date, first class Public Health Nursing Association in Greater Boston.

first class Public Health Nursing Association in Greater Boston.

The City of Newton, like all other communities, has since the war time, become very much awake to the problems of Public Health, and it is important that every branch of health service be carried on in such a way that all the citizens, not only a small committee and a few field workers, understand what is the necessary service that we must render to the citizens, if we are to give the rising generation a chance for normal phy-generation a chance for normal physical and mental development.

The history of the Newton District
Nursing Association has been one of The houses have no chimneys, and a fire is never kept in any room except the kitchen, even in the coldest weather. The smoke passes out through a hole in the roof. The only windows are pieces of glass, or thin skin, four inches square. No attention is given to ventilation, and the atmosphere of the house is almost unendurable to foreigner. The natives' sense of smell is deadened by the universal habit of taking snuff.

The continent of Asia, according to Dr. Sven Hedin, writing in Popular Mechanics Magazine, is like the roof of a house, irregular in shape, falling.

SILVER WEDDING

To Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Esty, October 11th, 1924.

Fair honeymooners on the road of Life Beside the way we find many a pot of honey,—

Or like the fortunate owners of a life the fortunate owners of a life the fortunate owners of a life.

The tremendous increase in the registration for the coming election shows what can be done with intelligent and systematic work. Let us hope that these new voters will appreciate the new definition of the word "Politician" as "one who knows what he is doing on election day."

The school committee has acted wisely in discontinuing the No School signal. Newton has outgrown that antiquated notion.

POLITICAL NOTES

A public rally was held Tuesday evening in the State Armory, West Newton, under the auspices of the Democratic State committee, and at the Auburndale Club, the same evening, the Good Government Association of that village had as guests Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman Robert Luce, who outlined their platforms. At the Democratic rally in West Newton, there were about 300 people who listened to John E. Switt, candidate for attorney general, Robert people who listened to John E. Swift, candidate for attorney general, Robert Dinsmore, Mayor Curley, Strabo V. Claggett of Newton, John J. Lydon of South Boston and Edwin Tuttle, candidate for Congress. Senator David I. Walsh was scheduled to address this meeting but was unable to be present.

That the milk is carefully bottled and delivered;
That the tuberculin test be applied to the herd of cattle

The problem of, "how much coal will I have to burn this winter?" is the question that is in every household. We all know that coal gives off various gases which pass up the chimney unburnt due to faulty drafts or poor combustion. You will have a large surplus of ashes and half consumed coal left.

By using the CRAIGULATOR which increases combustion by scientific burning of these gases you will save on your coal and ence has forsaken the old style of putting their stuff over. When we think of the students of elocution, think of the students of elocution, who practiced deep-breething in order that they might more easily develop chest-tones, we are almost ready to weep. When we recall the teachers of piano-playing and their patience with youthful pupils whom they hoped would some day acquire a truly artistic "touch" we put our handkerchief to our eyes. When memory contemplates the singers who travelled up and down the scales morning, noon and night, to please next Sunday's congregation or the hoped-for concert audience, we cannot check the tears. Professors, assistant professors, masters, sub-masters and even down to we might easily take away, if we stopped to think of his situation with relation to ourselves. Most of us would willingly lend a helping hand in his behalf (and thereby benefit our community and ourselves as well as the stranger in our mdist, and our less fortunate brothers) if we knew what to do and how to do it.

The following list of books, prepared by Arthur Dunham, Executive Secretary for the Newton Community Welfare Conference that has just closed, gives just this information in interesting form:

We were about to use a stronger word to describe to weep. When we recall the teach-some of the fiction so widely circulated with the approach of Election Day. But that would defeat the very point we seek to make at this time. It would mean that we took seriously and down the soales morning, noon had own to happens that we have, through our daily occupation, become somewhat familiar with the personal side of a number of prominent men of the principal political parties. An informal reception was tendered the work of the owner of the house to move it to another location. It is further recording secretary.

Mrs. M. Estelle Seaver spoke very interestingly on the progress of Americanization in the State, some nine thousand being reached in 1919, and thirty-two thousand in 1924.

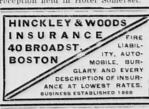

Her address dwelt particularly on the work directed by the Newton public school denartment with special.

Letters have reached the writer of this column suggesting something be the successing something be the successing something be the so-called Byfield case. Our correspondent expresses the opinion that "nothing is settled until it is settled right" and then proceeds to point out that the Board of Aldermen were unfair in declining to allow the owner of the house to move it to another location. It is further suggested in one of the letters we received that we use what slight influence we may possess to convince our readers of the "unfair treatment accorded Mrs. Byfield by the city." It is not that we do not agree in some of the so-called Byfield case. Our correspondent that the Board of Aldermen were unfair in declining to allow the owner of the house to move the suggested in one of the letters we may find of bicycle riding on the sidewalk. For the present, however, we shall call sustention to such remote instances as the opinion that "nothing is settled until it is settled until it is settled right" and then proceeds to point out that the Board of Aldermen were unfair in declining to allow the owner of the house to move the streets.

Cherokee Myth Tells of Bravery of Spider

Lucky was it for all the animals that there are spiders that have egg sacs resembling bowls, for otherwise all the creatures of the forest would have had to go without fire, the Youth's Companion remarks. At least so we are assured in a Cherokee myth. Natural History thus tells the pretty story in which a spider played the part of

In the beginning there was no fire and the world was cold. In time, how-ever, the thunders placed fire in a hollow tree on an island. The animals gazed enviously at the smoke that curled upward from the concealed bonfire, knowing that there was warmth there, yet at a loss how to obtain it. So they held a council, and as a result the raven set out on the quest. He reached the island and the tree but all that he bore back with him as a result of his adventure was scorched and blackened feathers. The little screech owl next made the trial. He reached the tree, but while he was hesitating what to do next a blast of fiery air arose and nearly burned out his eyes, which are red to this day.

to find the weightlest of reasons for not venturing to go. Not so the spi-der, however. She wove a little tustibowl of her silk and, fastening it to her back, set forth on her adventure. Reaching the island, she crept through the grass to the tree and snatched up a little ember of fire, which she placed in her bowl and returned with it to the expectant animals.

distant, says London Tit-Bits.

When the authorized version of the Scriptures was first printed, the word "careful" meant "full of care and anxiety." as in "careworn," but if a man were said to be careful it would today be a good testimonial. Thus, when the New Testament tells us to "be careful for nothing," it is not enjoining wastefulness and speaking against thrift, but simply telling us not to worry about anything.

The Young Men's Christian association was founded in England by Sir George Williams, a London merchant. Williams' organization grew out of meetings he held for prayer and Bible reading among his fellow workers in a dry-goods business in London, and the association was founded in 1844. On the occasion of its jubilee, its originator was knighted. Similar associations dry-goods business in London, and the association was founded in 1844. On the occasion of its Jubilee, its originator was knighted. Similar associations had been in existence in Scotland at a much earlier date. In 1824 David Naismith started the Glasgow Young Men's Society for Religious Improvement, a movement which spread to various parts of the United Kingdom, France and America. Later the name was changed to the Glasgow Young Men's Christian association.

Lost Talent

A great deal of talent is lost in the orld for the want of a little courage. Every day sends to their graves a numtimidity has prevented them from making a first effort; and who, if they could have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of face.

The fact is the would have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of fame. The fact is that, to do anything in this world worth doing, we must not stand back shrinking and thinking of the cold and danger, but jump in and scramble through as well as we can.—

The game was played at Everett on Monday, and a blocked punt which fell behind the goal line was the only score made in the game. Near the end of the game Newton made a big try for a score, Gilligan tossing a forward pass to Capt. Adams for a 40-yard gain, but was only able to gain after two touchdowns.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, Oct. 15—These are vexatious days in Washington with the struggle for the management of the nation at its height. Everybody is in a speculative mood, but few are willing to hazard cash bets on the outcome of the election. Times and ing to hazard cash bets on the outcome of the election. Times and manners have changed and no amount of pre-election optimism can disguise the fact that all partisans are deeply concerned over the action of the election of a two and four year term in Washington, knowing full well that public opinion is capricious. Unlike the quadrennial election of 1920, there are no marked issues, which naturally complicate sues, which naturally complicate e political and economic situation. Campaign managers fear lethargy and indifference as the balloting day and indifference as the balloting day approaches.

Making a showing of their determination to enforce rectitude in public affairs, the Congressional committee is prepared to investigate so-called "slush funds" of the various parties. Those close to the financial authorities of the respective political organizations are amused at these developments, for it is generally known that ments, for it is generally known that fery air arose and nearly burned out his eyes, which are red to this day. Other owls tried in their turn, but with no better success. Then the black snake tried, and today he bears a covering of sooty scales as a badge of his ineffectual hardthood.

Daunted by the failure of their fellows, the remaining animals managed to find the weightlest of reasons for not venturing to go. Not so the spithe cry for money finds the cupboard ontributions during election by Senate committees.

The working forces of the national committees have been reduced to a minimum and economies never considered in other election years are being enforced by the three parties. Those who help conduct campaigns know that the condition of the parties' exchequers will not permit cash remuneration, but hope that their zeal will be rewarded in patronage in the event their party is successful. The poverty-stricken condition has frustrated the sanguine expectations of many party votaries whose interest is aroused at the tinkle of coins in the cash box.

Changes in Meaning

If we wish to label anything strange or barbarous we say it is "outland ish," but when the Bible speaks of an "outlandish woman" it means a foreigner.

Another curious expression in the authorized version is "The other basket had very naughty figs." That means fruit which was good for naught. Today the word "naughty" means "ill-behaved." In the prayer book the word "presently" means "at the present time," but today is always means a future time, though not far distant, says London Tit-Bits.

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

At its weekly luncheons, the Rotary Club is hearing business talks from its own members and at the meeting held on Tuesday at the Newton Club; Mr. Ira S. Roe, the Ford car agent in Newton, told some interesting facts about that enormous business. It is interesting to learn that Newton absorbs 1,000 Ford cars a year, and that the business totals over a million dollars. To learn that some of the by products of the vast Ford business at Detroit are such things as plate glass, oil, cement and coke. To realize that one plant at Detroit employs about 60,000 hands, and that another ten miles outside of that city has over 40,000 employees. One building of the Ford Co, is 1500 feet long and 400 feet wide, and turns out 400 touring cars, besides 1500 closed car bodies and 1500 other bodies every day of eight hours.

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW

Address By Mrs. Irving O. Palmer at the All-Newton Community Welfare Conference

The following address, delivered by Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, Vice-President of the Newton Central Council, at the afternoon session of the All-Newton Community Welfare Conference on October 16, 1924, has a special local interest for Newton people because it gives exactly what the title implies—a bird's-eye view of the activities of the welfare organizations of Newton. That Newton is a city rich in resources is a self-evident truth. Think of its geography! It has an area of 18 square miles, for its 49,000 people, an area in which a town planner says there is room for several cities the size of Boston proper, an area which has only one handicap—that it allows such generous spaces between its several villages that we Newton people find it hard to be truly neighbors, with one common interest in our common city.

Newton has unusual educational resources. Not only are 10,000 children enjoying the advantages of our splendid public schools, but we have also 14 private schools, 5 Parochial schools, 2 higher educational institutions, Boston College and Newton Theological Institution, and many more within a distance of a few miles.

Its financial resources are spoken of in terms of the superlative degree, for we are said to be the richest city, per capita, in the country.

But as we consider Newton's wealth of resources we do not forget that "Great privileges never go save in company with great responsibilities." We are glad to find, then, that Newton has also definite Welfare Resources, and it is for us to consider whether or not these are commensurate with the other resources of Newton

We remember a man who had been around from church to church trying to find a congenial congregation. Finally he stopped in a little church just as the congregation read with the minister: "We have left undone those things which we ought to have done minister: "We have left undone those things which we ought to have done and we have done those things which we ought not to have done." we ought not to have done." The man dropped into the pew with a sigh of relief. "Thank goodness," he said, "I've found my crowd at last."

We don't like to think that Newton could have that experience and yet undoubtedly, if we may judge from the results of the surveys given this morning it has left undone some of those things that it ought to have done.

the mind as well as the body.

If any of you have not yet visited the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children now located at Oak Hill, we hope you may soon have the privilege. In an ideal location and under ideal conditions you will find there 90 crippled children whose little bodies are being made over while they are also being fitted to become happy and useful members of society.

Among our Welfare Resources we must count our 6 institutions which are providing homes for their respective groups. Four of these are for the aged; Stone Institute and Newton Home for Aged People; Swedish Home Home for Aged People; Swedish Home for Aged People; Governor John A. Andrew Home Association, for civil War Veterans and their wives, and he Newton City Home.

the Newton City Home.

For children we have two institutions: Pomroy Home for dependent girls of Newton, under 11 years of age, and The Working Boys' Home of Newton Highlands, under the supervision of the Roman Catholic Church, where 125 dependent boys between 9 and 13 years of age are now being given a grammar school education, and are helping in the work of the Home and the farm connected with it. This Home is not for the boys of Newton alone but of greater Boston.

We ought not to end our bird's-eye sources. Not only are 10,000 children enjoying the advantages of our splendid public schools, but we have also 14 private schools, 5 Parochial schools, 2 higher educational institutions, Boston College and Newton Theological Institution, and many more within a distance of a few miles. Its financial resources are spoken of in terms of the superlative degree, for we are said to be the richest city, per capita, in the country.

Our sources for religious training are not inconsiderable—our 44 Protestant and 6 Catholic churches, with the various organizations affiliated with them.

Our club life is certainly not being neglected. We have 75 or more clubs, excluding church and fraternal organizations. These range, in type and interest, from the country club with its extensive golf links, to the small study club, meeting in the homes of the members.

But as we consider Newton's wealth of resources we do not forget that "Great privileges never go save in company with great responsibilities." We are glad to find, then, that Newton has also definite Welfare Response of the Newton people whom it would serve. Among our Welfare resources we include, of course, our system of public education. This is familiar to us all, but perhaps we do not all realize that under the supervision of the school department 26 classes were conducted for our foreign born last year, besides those classes carried on through private agencies. About one-The church can truly say, in thes days, "I am among you as one that serveth." As the old poem runs:

had 2000 people with us who could not read or write in the English language. Of the nearly 100 from Sunday afternoon and evening. Over three hundred were present. The conference was presided over by the President, Rev. Chester A. Drummond of Channing Church, Newton.

The first address was by the Rev. Edwin Slocombe of Lexington on the subject of "Closer Fellowship among the Churches." Mr. Slocombe pointed out that no church stands alone, that both the organization of the church and its form of faith are outgrowths of many generations.

Rev. Palfrey Perkins of Weston led a discussion on the ways of bringing about greater unity. Representatives from Concord told of the cordial relationships between Congregational and Unitarian Churches in that town as shown at the time of the recent fire. Rev. Samuel M. Crothers, D. D. of Cambridge gave the final address of the stone wall in the farmer's field, the speaker went on to show how Fear built a wall about people, and Love destroyed the wall and in its place thuilt a road. He made a strong plea for tearing down the wall of prejudice and with the materials building new roads upon which to go forward. The important thing he said is that the church of God shall move forward. Following the address, there was a roll call by churches, after which a cafeteria supper was served.

The evening session was opened by an organ recital by Mr. E. Rupert Sircom, organist of the First Unitarian Churches, after which a cafeteria supper was served.

After supper was served, there was an intelligence test, in which the members had a chance to see which could read correctly the names of a number of automobile parts, the letters of which had been transposed. A CONTEMPTIBLE ACT

Another woman in the neighborhood who said she saw the two women in the machine and declares she could identify them, gave the police their description, and said the automobile carried a doctor's cross on the front and its left headlight was broken.

A bridge party is being given in Newton Centre on Wednesday, October 22nd, for the benefit of the Music School. Miss Pucciarelli and Mrs. Hay will play.

Breathes there a man with soul so lean
Who seldom at the polls is seen,
Whose mind concentered all in self;
Pursuit of pleasures and of self.
Heeds not his duty's ringing call,
Cares not if civic virtue fall,
Cares not if rascals go uncurbed,
If only he be not disturbed.
If such there be go mark him well,
Call on a thousand tongues to tell
Their keen contempt for one so small,
The meanest slacker of them all.
Oh for the pen of Walter Scott
To give the wretch a final shot.
False to his country and his God,
And doubly dead when 'neath the sod
Condemned by every patriot tongue,
Unwept, unhonored and unsung.

The communication we print on another page in regard to the condition of the Eliot Memorial is fully justified by the facts. This memorial has usually been neglected until some one directs publicity towards it and compels those in authority to act.

With a registration of over 22,000 Newton ought to cast fully 20,000 votes at the coming election and the Republican city committee should set a goal of at least 15,000 votes for President Coolidge. Everybody up for 15,000 for Coolidge.

So Arthur M. Ellis, we welcome you warmly.
We like you and hope you will like us as well.
Our very new parson, our just-arrived parson,
Our imported parson, we think you are swell.
Rev. Mr. Ellis was called upon for remarks, and he delighted all present by his bright wit and fund of interesting stories, and his hearty good fellowship. He spoke of the formality of church services, and how this prevented the men from getting well acquainted with each other, unless they had some other means for social meetings.

Mr. Ellis spoke of his experiences in widely different fields. The people in his recent pastorate said he was making a great mistake to come up to cold and sleepy Boston, but he had not found it so. Although he was a native of England, he had a hearty sympathy with American ideals, and he came here because he chose this country for his home. A brief humorous speech was also made by Mr. C. W. Colman, which was warmly applauded.

Your Milk Supply Is Important

You should demand that your milk is received from a herd of cows that are clean and healthy: That the stable in which these cows are kept is clean and

That the milking is done in a sanitary, careful way; That the milk is carefully bottled and delivered;

That the tuberculin test be applied to the herd of cattle supplying you with milk, and that you receive milk from a tubercular free herd.

Unless you are getting milk handled under these conditions, you are not getting the best.

It is important to study the source of your milk supply, which will easily, determine its quality.

We invite you to inspect our dairy.

If you order from the Post Road Farm, you will get rich, clean milk of fine flavor.

We deliver in Brookline and a large part of the Newtons.

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan D. Crowell of Springfield, Massachusetts, returned to this city last Friday as guests of the Second Church, West Newton, where they were tendered a reception. Mr. Crowell has been for ten years an active worker in the church and for five years' superintendent of the Church School, a period of service which was broken only by the months of his service in France during the war. As head of the Young People's Work and Scout Master of Troop 7. Boy Scouts he has become greatly endeared to the young people.

At half past seven o'clock the Boy Scouts and junior members of the Church School came in great crowds to greet him, and the Troop of Scouts formed at attention and received him with the Scout yell. After a few words to them, the Scout sand young people filed past him bidding him good-bye. At eight o'clock the receiving line consisting of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L Underwood, was formed and hundreds of old and new friends came to greet him and bid farewell. At nine o'clock Dr. Park, after a few words of old and new friends came to greet him and bid farewell. The total sum was a handsome gift, and Dr. Park expressed the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Crowell would purchase with it some object for their new home in Springfield to remind them of their friends in West Newton. Mr. Crowell then spoke a few words of appreciation at the close of which Mr. Underwood who is to succeed Mr. Crowell in the work at the Second Church, was introduced and greeted his new friends in a graceful little speech.

The whole affair was under the charge of a Social Committee headed by Mrs. John N. Eaton of Lenox street. Music was provided by a trio upon the stage.

"The past should not be an easy chair to lean back and repose in, but a stepping-stone to higher achievement."

In the October Scribner's, in a discussion of the Child Labor Amendment Ernest Eberling, Professor of Economics at Vanderbilt University, says: "The question is, are we ready to reach a move, admitting its advissability on the part of those fully informed?" If lack of understanding of the problem, the prejudice of parents a who are still willing to exploit their children, or the class of employers who children, or the class of employers who know nothing of the recent studies of the efficiency of child labor and its economic and social waste, is to detereconomic and social waste, is to deter-mine the question, then undoubtedly the answer would be: No! But it is to the intelligent, fair-minded and thoroughly informed minority that we must look for action on this proposi-tion. "If America is to maintain its civilization and improve its society, it must begin with its children. In this must begin with its children. In this day of marvellous industrial accomplishment, why isn't it possible to achieve splendid social and moral development? So let those who are interested in helping these United States do their part in eradicating this one of our most important social problems."

WEEKDAY SCHOOLS OF RELIGION

The Why, How and Where Told at the State Convention.—Are They Needed in Newton?

By E. MORRIS FERGUSSON

Four reasons compel the Protest-Four reasons compel the Protestant churches of today to enlarge their provision for religious instruction. So declared Dean Walter S. Athean last Wednesday afternoon at the state Sunday-school convention in the First Baptist Church, Watertown. Practical suggestions for starting and conducting weekday schools of religion, based on experience in Gary, Ind., Kansas City and elsewhere were added by Myron W. Settle of Newton Centre; and the International general secretary, Dr. Hugh S. Magill, out of his years of public school service, corroborated the need and outlined the movement's rapid advance.

Dear Athearn's reasons were:

1. The church's enlarged conception of her task. She realizes that only by remolding characters and rebuilding social institutions can she bring in the kingdom of God. Only by education can so vast a service be accomplished.

2. The public school's enlargement of its curriculum. The natural sciences, lately central, have since the war given place to the sciences of life and social progress. In the minds and hearts of the children the school is raising questions to which the Still there are some who are afraid.

In Dr. Slosson's Chats on Science he tells us that the man who brought into Parliament a bill for the construction of the first railroad line in England was called "insane" by his contemporaries. When bathtubs were first brought into the United States brought into the United States brought into England were "denounced as injurious to society and tomatoes as injurious to morals." The first eyed as "an insult to Providence, that a man should be ashamed to touch wholesome food with his fingers."

These things seem ridiculous seem in the perspective of years, but the people who, for reasons best known to themselves, are inciting the voters to tequally ridiculous fears:—the fear that Congress will prohibit children from washing dishes or milking the cow, that if a fourteen-year-old child is wheeling out a neighbor's baby, a federal agent will pop out from behind a bush and put a stop to it, these people understand psychology and know that people in general don't like to use their wits much better than ever they did, and are ready to take fright at my change in the order of things.

"We must remember," says Glenn Frank, "that change and treason are not synonyms."

It is not Bolshevism, nor radicalism nor even socialism to want to make remember and where the below his raising questions to which the church has and must claim the right to make answer.

3. The increase in the perils to make answer.

life. To match this costly testimony the Protestant churches have heretofore, with a few recent exceptions, offered the Sunday school. Can this one-hour- a-week institution, whatever its excellence, continue to absolve our consciences and carry our responsibility for putting religion where it belongs as a part of our children's education?

What Dean Athearn and the other speakers have in mind is an institution midway between the Sunday schools on one side and the public schools on the other, which shall give to all children whose parents so request at least one hour a week of competent instruction in religion. One church might do this for its own children; and beginnings of this sort in Newton have already been made. But a far better arrangement, educationally, financially and in relation to school locations and attendance is when most or all of the Protestant churches unite to establish and run a school for the religiously interested community. Such a school asks from the public schools only a slight concession of its time, and not that till its educational standing is fully proved. Its feasibility and the value of its service are illustrated in the experience of many cities. Why is Newton not yet one of these? But it is perience of many cities.

Inded and Newton not yet one of these?

ONE THING AND ANOTHER Written by Leverett D. G. Bentley There is said to be a "law of averages," which is apparently self-administered, and which makes no exceptions once it gets underway. Whether this be True we are not private to the continuation of the competition of the electric car lines. We refer to those that operate in our own city rather than the trolleys that carry people to and from Boston. As we recall there was a happy time when the Newton & Boston, which is now, we understand, the Middlesex & Boston, gave a passenger a ride from Union Sq. Allston, through Allston, through Allston, the dege of Faneuil, Watertown, Nonantum, Newtonville, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls to Needham for five cents. That was long ago, if our data is correct, and did not bring sufficient revenue to warrant its continuance. Nevertheless it shows that the intention of the road's managers of those days was to provide good service at as small cost as possible, and no no is going to condemn them for such motives. But there was at that time an understanding, when greated the value of the continuance. "How's it going?" There is the query of the hour. Newspapers everywhere are seeking to set before their readers satisfactory answers. We say "answers" advisedly because for some reason or other they do not seem to agree. Correspondents of experience have been sent to travel thousands of miles to size-up the situation in the so-called doubtful states. A close-up is demanded by the readers and therefore it is given. There is scarcely a man or woman who isn't eager to know just what is going to happen Nov. 4. There doesn't seem to be any doubt about Massachusetts, although the Democrats believe that one of their leading candidates is likely to with heads. knows what happened. Few, however, expected the trolleys to receive such a hard blow as was delivered against them. Patronage dropped to such an extent that many lines were discontinued. One may see as one rides through the outlying sections today, portions of abandoned tracks which never will be used again. The trolley that expected to drive out the steam railroad has itself been driven out by the automobile. The "law of averages" is operating, if the trolley systems are not.

Now then comes the question of the running of motor busses in Newton. To us it seems a wise move and a logical one. The electric street railway company meets the competition of the swift-running motor vehicle as not the state is somewhat hollow and of the swift-running motor vehicle as not known we regret that Newton failed to show hospitality to this plan at an earlier date. We do not know who is to blame for this reluctance or whether it is merely plain conservatism of which we seem at times to possess excessive quantities here in our home town. We came at times to possess excessive quantities here in our home town. We came agement. Without discussing the details we feel that it is only just that credit be given and criticism withheld. It was early evening. The boys had been playing hard but were still ready for one more thrill before bedtime, as boys always are. As this incident occurred last week—Oct. 17 to be exact—the weather conditions were most delightful and youngsters could scarcely be blamed for wanting to stay outdoors even after sunset. At the particular moment of this occurence the entire "gang", six in number, were sitting on the steps of one of the larger houses in the neighborhood. The family happened to be away, which was one reason for the gathering, and the steps were wide, which was another. The conversation had drifted into reminiscence, which may seem remarkable for boys in their earliest teens, but which is nevertheless true. "Husky" had told how he had assisted in the attempted plundering of an orchard and how the owner had appeared and given spirited chase. They came near being caught, "Husky" said, but weren't. "Red" and regret at not being able to be present was read from Dr. George A. Gordon of Boston.

Gordon of Boston.

Dr. Sullivan speaking upon "Years of Co-operation in the Village of Newton Centre," remarked that anniversaries were becoming a fixed habit. Never in all its history, he said, has this church been so large, so strong, and so forward-looking as it is today. It is strongest in its history because of Mr. Noyes' ministry. The minister, he said, is the one man in the community without a particle of authority. Imagine a doctor or a lawyer in such a position. The minister has to adposition. The minister has to adress the most unassorted of audiences and is expected to interest all ages and all at the same time. His audiences are ungraded as to age, as to intellectual development, and also spiritually ungraded. The minister spiritually ungraded. The minister very seldom gives a verdict. The doctor knows, the lawyer knows, but the minister not very often; he can only hope that he has been helpful to some human soul. We are warned, he said, of the dead line for ministers. Only men are dead at fifty, who have been dead a long time before that. The secret of a minister's success is the magnificent voluntary assistance he receives from his people.

Mr. Arnold, representing the second daughter of the First Church, Eliot, characterized a pastorate of thirty versatility of the minister and hardihood on the part of the congregation.

Dr. Park, representing the oldest daughter, spoke in his own inimitable way of the difficulties of a suburban parish. The most difficult field, he said, is a suburb of a great city, for the suburb is connected in the minds of the people with sleep, and it is the minister's job to keep people awake. The most difficult suburb is a suburb of Boston, because of its fondness for beans and brown bread.
There is more sleep in a cubic foot of dents from the Theological School sang.

—On Monday the Woman's Missionary Meeting of the Methodist Church held an informal reception for Miss Jessie Marryott who has recently come home on a furlough from China, where she is engaged in missionary work.

—Miss Flora M. Bosson announces the re-opening of her classes in dramatic art, voice training, and the interpretation of modern plays. Address, Flora M. Bosson, 9 The Ledges Road, Newton Centre, Centre Newton 0790.—Advertisement.

—A public meeting to consider Referenda 3 and 7 will be held at the Woman's Club on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 8 P. M. Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney will speak in favor of the Prohibition Enforcement Referendum. Mr. LeRue Brown will speak for the Child Labor Referendum, and Mr. Bentley Warren against it.

—The recently elected officers of command would like office employment. Familiar with financial work do not like it.

Even the fundamental elements, melody, harmony, and rhythm, have changed. The most striking change is in the harmony, it is very dissonant. The melody is of a different type, it differs as prose does from the 4-line stanza of poetry. It is more complicated in instruction. The rhythm of Haydn, Mozart, and Beethoven, was reguiar, in modern music there is continual change, there is a freedom of rhythm. The aim of the composer has changed, he is painting tone pictures. Richard Strauss, Professor Marshall declared is the greatest of modern composers. The French school has added impressionoism, and a national spirit has also come in, Music of the Northern countries is most easily recognized. Modern music makes more demand on the listener. In learning to appreciate it, one must emember that it requires a mental effort.

At the business meeting it was an-effort.

At the business meeting it was announced that the French classes will begin on the first Thursday of November. Miss Emma D. Coolidge, chairman of Legislative committee, explained the referenda to appear upon the ballot at the coming election.

DEVELOPING REAL AMERICANS

Making good American citizens of boys and girls these days is proving more and more

In many cases the love of home is lacking and that is really the foundation on which good citizenship is and must be built.

It is far easier to develop a love of home in children when the family owns the home they live in. A sense of ownership means as much to children as it does to grown-ups and that develops the habit of thrift and neighborliness all of which are strongly bound up in good American citizenship.

Our country needs good citizens today as never before and home owners make the best kind.

You have to pay a good price to live in a rented house or in an apartment. Put the same money into a home of your own and give your family the finest kind of a start toward the future you would like them to live.

Our home planning and home figuring service will help you fit a home to your family ideals and resources.

THE ELIOT MEMORIAL

To the Editor of the Graphic:
As a former resident of Newton, as a graduate of the Roxbury Latin School, one of whose founders was John Eliot, and as a descendant of Governor Thomas Mayhew, Richard Bourne, and Thomas Tupper, all of whom devoted themselves to the wel-fare of the Indians, I desire to call fare of the Indians, I desire to call your attention to the deplorable condition of the Eliot Memoriai. Not only have parts of the ornamentation been thrown to the ground, but even the inscription has been defaced. A general air of complete neglect characterizes the Monument. May I ask just what department of the Newton City Government has charge of the Memorial? And may I venture the statement that no community unwilling or unable to preserve the Memorials of great men and great deeds, is likely to be held in the highest esteem by coming generations?

CHURCH WOMEN

The Newtonville Federation of Church Women met at Central Church, Newtonville, on Wednesday, Mrs. Wallace C. Boyden in the chair.

After a brief devotional service, the minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Edward J. Cox. Mrs. Whiting of Cambridge then discussed Referendum No. 3, pleading for the voters at the next election to bring the state law in agreement with the Federal Law on Prohibition.

Miss McGill, President of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, then spoke in favor of the Child Labor Amendment, Referendum No. 7.

Mr. Kenelm Winslow of the Stearns School then spoke on Daylight Saving. He said that in his opinion, and in the opinion of the teachers in his school, the law was working a distinct harm to children who under its working do not have sleep enough,

DAYLIGHT SAVING

I have been much interested in

I have been much interested in a pamphlet proving beyond question that Daylight Saving is a splendid thing and showing that those opposed have no case whatever.

I think it is about time that someone spoke up for the children. Every teacher and every parent knows that it deprives the children really need. It is difficult enough as the days get longer in May and June to get the children in before eight or eightwhirty but when Daylight Saving goes into effect and moves that time along a whole hour, it is discouraging for case of us who have not only our own children to look out for but hundreds of others, under less restraint, who run the street until nine-thirty or ten at night—at a time when the worst influences are brought to bear upon

Shall we benefit physically the present generation by taking it out physically and morally of the next generation? Cut this out and take with you to the Polls on November 4.

There are seven questions to be acted upon by the voters of the Commonwealth at the election next Tuesday. They divide themselves into three groups,—two to amend the state constitution, three are laws passed by the last Legislature and whose operation are held up under the Initiative and Referendum clause of the state constitution and two are merely straw votes, having no conclusive effect and are only intended to give the Legislature an idea of what the people think of the subjects at issue. The first two,—constitutional amenderning the business of the so-called "private bankers."

The first of these measures,—that enlarging the police power in the enforcement of the liquor laws, puts into state law, the power to prohibit the illegal sale of liquor. The last is already a state law, but at the present time the local police are powerless to prevent the manufacture of liquor or its transportation through the state. This at present, its solely within the power of the new Federal agents in the Commonwealth. With the passage of this law, five thousand local police could aid in the enforce—

Mrs. S. C. Archbishop of the state. This at present, is solely within the power of the new Federal agents in the Commonwealth. With the passage of this law, five thousand local police could aid in the enforcement of the liquor law. We urge a YES vote on this important matter. In passing, let us suggest that if it is reasonable to approve Referenda 1 and 2 which harmonize the state constitution with the 19th amendment. Surely the same reasoning should apply to Referendum 3, which merely harmonizes the Massachusetts law with the 18th amendment. We fail to understand the selfish reasoning which opposes the gasoline tax. This measure provides that the extension with the heavy registration and the which opposes the gasoline tax. This measure provides that the extension of the good roads in this state shall be financed by the persons who use the roads either for pleasure or business. The heavy truck which tars up the roads, will pay more than the light Ford car, for each will pay only on the actual amount of gasoline consumed. The fear of the automobile dealers that the tax will lessen the automobile business ought not to weigh very much when all our energies are now devoted towards solving whatever, as the Legislature can act as it pleases regardless of the outcome of the vote next Tuesday.

The retention of the daylight saving law is put on the ballot at the behest of certain "smart" politicians on the theory that as the farmers of the state are opposed to it, they would make an unusual effort to go to the polls and vote against it and as the farmer vote is supposedly Republican, it would increase the Republican vote to that extent. Now it is on the ballot, friends of Daylight Saving of course should vote YES on this question.

polls and vote against it and as the farmer vote is supposedly Republican it would increase the Republican vote to that extent. Now it is on the ballot, friends of Daylight Saving of course should vote YES on this question.

Possibly the most uncertain question on the ballot is the expression of public opinion on the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution. As a member of the Legislature we were impressed with the arguments advanced by the textile interests of the state in regard to the loss of business to the South where there were less drastic laws affecting that industry than in Massachusetts. We became convinced that a partial solution would be made if the child labor laws of all the states could be uniform and welcomed the passage of the amendment by the Congress. Since that time however, we have been somewhat uncertain as to the practicability of the amendment as proposed, with the age fixed at eighten years. We recall that when about twelve years of age, we earned our first pennies by selling newspapers and surely we do not wish to prevent there boys from earning their pin money in any legitimate manner. We have come to the conclusion, that it would be wise to approve the amendment.

The surface of the state is the conclusion of the congress to pass a reasonable and the Congres would be wise to approve the amendment, even at 18 years, and rely upon the Congress to pass a reasonable and proper act under its provisions. The Child Labor laws passed by the Congress in 1920 subsequently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court) were sane and sensible, and we believe that the Congress would act under this amendment with common sense and discretion. To those who are undecided on this question are only intended to give the Legisla are only intended to give the poole think of the subjects at issue.

The first two,—constitutional amendments have been passed by two successive Legislatures and approved by the Governor. They merely correct the present constitution to conform to the 19th amendment (admitting women to the franchise) by striking out the word "male" and making it clear that women are eligible to hold office. As a matter of fact it makes but little difference whether these amendments are approved or not, as amendments are approved or not, as the United States constitution covers the whole situation. We advise a YES vote on these amendments.

The second group consists of three proposed laws,—one enlarging the jurisdiction of the police power in the matter of intoxicating liquors, one levying a tax of 2 cents a gallon on the sale of gasoline and one governing the business of the so-called "private bankers."

The first of these measures,—that The first of these measures in the entropy of the first of these measures in the entropy of the first of these measures in the entropy of the first of these measures,—that The first of these more in the first of the suggest and discretion. To those mond as it is a matter of the suggest and discretion. To those who are undecided on this question which can easily be deferred for final action.

We urge every friend of good governent to go to the police next Tues.

gies are now devoted towards solving our serious traffic problem. Good business as well as good common sense point to a YES vote on this referendum also.

The third matter in this group, is intended to prevent a repetition of the Ponzi fiasco of some years ago. It requires private bankers to be financially responsible and just why thousands of persons were induced to sign the petition holding up the operation of this useful piece of legislation, is a conundrum.

It should be clearly understood by every voter that all of these measures have been carefully considered by the Legislature, after full public hearings and have been approved by Governor Cox. To those in doubt on these matters, let us suggest that with this background, it seems entirely safe to accept the opinion of the Legislature and Governor Cox and vote Yes.

The last two referenda are mere

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

Written by Leverett D. G. Bentley "THE PERFECT MAN"

I know they're many qualities I know they're many qualities
Which all men should possess;
They should be always neatly shaved
And spick and span in dress;
They should be truthful to a fault.
And honest as the sun;
They should have courage all the time,

From danger never run;
They should be prompt to aid a friend,
Good husbands—if they're wed—
And anyway good citizens,
Who earn their daily bread;
They always should be well-behaved,
Their conduct most sedate,
They should be early, quick and prompt, And never should be late: To business they should close attend, And never wander far; In brief, they should be perfect, But, how many of them are?

In brief, they should be perfect, But, how many of them are?

Criticism has been directed against those responsible for the care and maintenance of the John Eliot Memorial. We have an idea that somehow action will be taken by the city now that the matter has been so vigorously called to the attention of our municipal authorities. There is little doubt but what if the memorial were situated on one of the principal highways of our city the present state of its neglect would never have been reached. In "prinking up" cities are no different from individuals and the desire to "look pretty," when many pairs of eyes are to behold one's appearance, is as natural to a group as to one person. In times of celebration communities decorate their residences and places of business with flags and bunting, hoping to beautify the general surroundings. We have always understood that the idea was to impress visitors with the fact that the townspeople were alive to the significance of the occasion and sought to display their "live wire" spirit. The placing of the John Eliot memorial on the site it has occupied so long was consistent. Otherwise the purpose for which it was erected would not have been properly recognized. We remember that the memorial was sometimes the objective of a number of boys on a Saturday's ramble. It used to puzzle us, when we paused to consider the inaccesibility of the spot. We wondered how many people were going to see it "way off there," as it seemed to us youngsters. Of spot. We wondered how many people were going to see it "way off there," as it seemed to us youngsters. Of course we have since learned there was no other place that would satisfy the desire of those who believed such an historic spot should be thus fittingly marked. We still have an idea that its remoteness is the cause of its present condition. And from this we feel there is a lesson to be learned. It is not improbable that from time to time occasions will rise of sufficient importance to warrant the erection of a memorial to this or that noble cause. There may indeed be some such instances that have been overlooked or

We were recently asked to prepare a written statement of our views on bicycle riding on the sidewalk in order that they might be presented to a local organization which had the matter before it. That value should be placed on our opinion was a matter of great satisfaction. What we found of even more gratification was that one of the larger of our local community organizations had undertaken a solution of the problem. We believe there is no better way than to have the citizens themselves deal with offenders. The police will, upon urging, become active for a time in such matters. Fut not for long. It is best way to bring about permanent reform.

We have made up our minds to walk to the polls next Tuesday morning. This should serve as notice to any one who may have our name on his check-list and who has an idea that we will be among those who will have to be dragged out to vote. We shall be working the night before until a comparatively late hour and on election night shall be busy also. We may not get down to the polls as early as many of our fellow citizens, but we expect to be there and shall need no urging. It wouldn't have helped us the least bit had the Board of Aldermen voted to keep the polls open until S P. M. That, by the way, was part of a general plan conceived by the "board of strategy" of the Democratic State Committee. There is no reason that the Democratic pamy should not show strategy whenever it thinks that it can do so effectively. But nevertheless the fact remains it was nothing more than a strategic move, and in our opinion, has worked mighty well in certain towns and cities. The fact that the Newton authorities did not "go through" was unfortunate for the parfy as the Democrats need every vote they can get in this city. However, any city with a Republican Board of Aldermen cannot be expected to favor Democrats no more than should Republicans look for recognition in a city with a Democratic City Council. Such things are "not being done." They are not part of the political game. From our observations of conditions we feel confident that one fact is thoroughly established and that is there is an extraordinary amount of interest in the election. Some people have said to us. "But where is all the excitement" we have replied, and believe our conclusions sound, that where there is intense interest, "excitement" one one can be provided in the soft means hysteria. Proof of the widespread in-well plan to make a night of it. As we take our daily plunge into the political news dispatches from various parts of the country we sometimes find it necessary to consult "Who's Who in America." It helps us to learn about this or that newcomer to the campaign's battlefield. We realize that after next Tuesday there will be plenty of names if anybody wants to print a volume entitled, "Who's Through in America."

vious answer to Reason No. 1. There are practical difficulties, but where are there not such?
Certainly one will not dispute the dictum that the weather can not be anticipated—particularly in New England. Unless, however, the custom of school superintendents has changed markedly since our youth, there is little likelihood of an erring on the side of unjustified holidays.

Reason 3 is plausible but gives ground for concern. Parents will lifter on the kind of conditions overhead and underfoot which justify keeping their children from school. The more cautious parents may be the wiser citizens, but suppose a teacher or principal holds differently? Suppose that teacher, Miss A, is impressed by the fact that Mrs. B sends her offspring to school 90 per cent of the rainy and snowy days, while Mrs. 2 sends hers only 75? May this not work a handicap on the little C, whose namma has a righteous fear of colds and their consequences? There is lost time for little C, and what is more serious, a probable loss in prestige with Miss A. Mrs. C may live fifteen minutes walk from the school and Mrs. B only five; Mrs. D's child may go to school on foot and Mrs. E's be carried. Will all the Misses A's be always alert to weigh these and other qualifying factors?

ways alert to weigh these and other qualifying factors?

The school authorities' own decisions on whether or not to keep school will not always be wise for he greatest number of pupils. But, at least, the no school custom has sufficed to prevent over-conscientious parents from endangering the health of their children by sending them forth in particularly inclement weather.

Here is a question that covered.

One compensation of the electric allway industry is to feel that it has elped develop communities in which operates. In order to achieve this complishment it must earn operting expenses such as taxes, interst, weekly pay rolls and numerous ther items.

How can this expense be met without revenue and yet, in an entirely thoughtless manner, no doubt YOU have gotten into the habit of doing something that is injuring the trolley industry greatly. It is the habit of picking up possible passengers along the line and giving them a free ride to their destination, just as a friendly act. The spirit in which you do it is fine. Friendly acts, when they injure no one, keep the world happy, but a friendly act that hurts another and does not help you particularly is of a different type.
